A Thousand Ways to Pay Attention

A MEMOIR OF COMING HOME
TO MY NEURODIVERGENT MIND

Rebecca Schiller

One woman's narratively propulsive, lyrical search to understand the land she farms—and her own neurodivergent mind

As Rebecca Schiller's young family moves to a two-acre homestead in the English countryside, Rebecca begins suffering frequent falls, uncontrollable rages, and mysterious memory lapses. Doctor after doctor delivers one misdiagnosis after another. When the answer comes, it's utterly unexpected: severe ADHD.

Rebecca's narrative of her harrowing year is compulsively readable and ferociously candid, both a medical mystery and a love song to the landscape she calls home. Here is a clarion call to the growing numbers of neurodivergent people pushing back against simplistic narratives of minds that are either normal and good or different and broken.

"A beautiful memoir of a scattered mind and how it can find peace in the soil . . . unflinching and full of truth. So many readers will find themselves in these pages."

—KATHERINE MAY, NYT-bestselling author of Wintering

REBECCA SCHILLER is cofounder and trustee of the human rights organization Birthrights and a regular contributor to The Guardian. Rebecca and her family raise a motley crew of goats and fowl and work their small homestead in the English countryside to grow food and flowers and restore wildlife to the land. She lives in Kent, UK.

SHIPS NOVEMBER

A timely manifesto on freedom, from pro-democracy activist and Nobel Peace Prize nominee Nathan Law

In this dispatch from exile, Hong Kong political activist Nathan Law explores the meaning of freedom—and shows how easily freedoms can be eroded or dismantled. Freedom is fragile; it is not a given, and each generation must fight to protect it—whether in emerging democracies or in the Western world, where freedom is too often taken for granted.

Rooted in the author's experience as a former elected official and student leader of the Umbrella Movement, this book by Nathan Law explores not only how important freedom is in principle for human beings to thrive, but how it works in reality. What does it mean to be able to speak freely, and what happens when the concept collapses? How can the law both protect and abolish our freedoms? And why should we place such importance on free and fair elections? What does it mean to be truly free?

- ▶ Authored by one of TIME's People of the Year 2020
- ▶ An urgent discussion of freedom, democracy, and the threat of authoritarianism
- ▶ An on-the-ground look at China's growth as a superpower

NATHAN LAW was Hong Kong's youngest elected lawmaker at age twenty-three. After being imprisoned by the Chinese authorities for his part in the Umbrella Movement, he was nominated for a Nobel Peace Prize and was one of TIME magazine's People of the Year 2020. He is a Pritzker Fellow at the University of Chicago. EVAN FOWLER is a writer and researcher focusing on Hong Kong and China affairs.

Hitler's Boy Soldiers

HOW MY FATHER'S GENERATION
WAS TRAINED TO KILL
AND SENT TO DIE FOR GERMANY

Helene Munson

The true, untold story of how Germany's children fought in WWII, through the lens of the author's father and his rediscovered journal

Helene Munson resurrects her father's WWII journals and embarks on a meticulous investigation, exposing how the Nazis trained 300,000 impressionable children as soldiers.

In 1937 Munson's father, Hans, was enrolled in an elite German school whose students were destined to take leadership roles in the Reich. At fifteen he was drafted as an anti-aircraft gunner—along with the rest of the Hitler Youth—and assigned to an SS unit. As the war was being lost, Hans and his schoolmates were ordered to the front lines. Few returned.

A personal lens into a nation's shameful past, Hitler's Boy Soldiers documents the history of the largest army of child soldiers in recent memory. Munson explores the lifelong effects on brainwashed children coerced to join a party they didn't understand. Both a modern narrative and an important historical contribution, Hitler's Boy Soldiers grapples with inherited trauma, the nature of being victim or perpetrator, and the burden of guilt.

HELENE MUNSON grew up in Brazil, Liberia, and Germany. Her short stories in English and German have been published in magazines and anthologies. Inspired by her family history, her master's degree was partly about the impact of armed conflicts on children. She lives outside New York City.

A fast-paced tour of 2,000 years of English history, tracing its secret North-South divide and notorious class system

James Hawes reveals an England repeatedly invaded and constantly reinvented, yet always fractured by its very own Mason-Dixon line—plus a unique, thousand-year-old cultural divide between ordinary people and the elites. Here, you'll see:

- ▶ The most compact history to date—with 150 illustrations!
- ▶ Sheds historical light on modern England's struggle between populism and liberal democracy
- ▶ Shows how long England's elite have been different from its common people
- ▶ Unforgettably explains why the UK, doomed by the split within England itself, has been in decline since Ireland left in 1921
- » See also The Shortest History of China, page 25; and The Shortest History of Germany, page 36

- centuries of conflict between Crown and Parliament, starring the Magna Carta
- why the American colonists of 1776 believed that they were the true Anglo-Saxons
- how the British Empire was undermined from within
- why Winston Churchill said the UK could only be saved by splitting up England itself

The Shortest History of England brings all this and more to prescient life with 150 maps and pictures.

"Sharp and vivid and extremely persuasive."
—PHILIP PULLMAN, author of the His Dark Materials series

JAMES HAWES is also the author of The Shortest History of Germany and several other books. Nowhere Left to Go

HOW CLIMATE CHANGE IS DRIVING SPECIES
TO THE ENDS OF THE EARTH

Benjamin von Brackel

Harrowing journeys of animals and plants, reported from the front lines of the greatest migration since the Ice Age

As humans accelerate global warming, laying waste to the environment, animals and plants must flee to the margins: on scattered nature reserves, between major highways, or among urban sprawl. When even these places become inhospitably warm, wildlife has only one path to survival: an often-formidable journey toward the poles. Tropical zones lose their inhabitants, beavers settle in Alaska, and gigantic shoals of fish disappear—only to reappear along foreign coastlines.

Award-winning environmental journalist Benjamin von Brackel traces these awe-inspiring journeys and celebrates the remarkable resilience of species around the world. But the lengths they must go to avoid extinction are as alarming as they are inspirational: Sea animals move, on average, 45 miles per decade to cooler regions, while land animals move 11 miles. As even Earth's poles heat up, we're left with a stark, irreversible choice: Halt the climate emergency now, or face a massive die-off of species, which are increasingly left with nowhere else to go.

BENJAMIN VON BRACKEL is a renowned environmental journalist based in Berlin, where his reporting on climate change has appeared in Süddeutsche Zeitung, Die Zeit, and Natur, and where he cofounded Klimareporter°, the Environmental Media Prize-winning online magazine on the climate emergency.

Nineteen Reservoirs

ON THEIR CREATION AND THE PROMISE
OF WATER FOR NEW YORK CITYLucy Sante*Photography by Tim Davis

By the author of Low Life, the classic history of NYC's outlaw underbelly—a meticulously researched, evocatively illustrated, profoundly meditative account of the city's upstate reservoirs

Without the upstate reservoir system that brings fresh water to New York City, the city would have faded into insignificance. But this feat of engineering had a cost: From 1907 to 1967, twenty-six upstate villages, farms, forests, and other natural areas were bought for a fraction of their value, demolished, then submerged to create the Catskills and Delaware watershed systems.

Compelled to understand “the air of permanent mourning” in their vicinity, Lucy Sante marshals the same gifts that have made her book Low Life a classic of NYC history: meticulous detail, a trove of rarely seen visual history, and a master of literary nonfiction's sensibility for the essential paradox at the heart of this story—the triumph that NYC's nineteen-reservoir system represents and the tragedy of its creation.

- ▶ Richly illustrated with historical photographs, maps, and postcards, as well as contemporary photos by renowned artist Tim Davis
- ▶ In the vein of John McPhee, a meticulous, meditative inquiry into what happens when humans need to command the natural world and its resources
- ▶ Lays bare national conflicts of urban and rural, wealth and poverty, and humans vs. nature

LUCY SANTE has contributed to the New York Review of Books since 1981 and is the author of seven books. She teaches writing and history of photography at Bard College.

TIM DAVIS's work is in the collections of the Guggenheim and Metropolitan Museums. He teaches photography at Bard College.

How to Save the World for Just a Trillion Dollars

THE TEN BIGGEST PROBLEMS
WE CAN ACTUALLY FIX

Rowan Hooper

The ultimate thought experiment reveals the good we can do for humanity, if we spend wisely

If you had a trillion dollars and a year to spend it for the good of the world, what would you do? Rowan Hooper embarks on a quest that takes this question extremely seriously. Speaking with experts of all kinds, he considers ten world-changing ideas that promise profound, lasting benefits—from ending poverty or reversing climate change to increasing human lifespans or saving all endangered species. Then he dives into the numbers to determine: How far could the money really go?

Hooper does decide which project would do the most good for ourselves and our planet, but his most surprising discovery is how many incredible advancements are within reach—if we could only put our minds (and our money) to them!

“Rowan Hooper shows that the world’s most intractable problems might not actually be intractable if we just devoted the resources to solving them.”

—ELIZABETH KOLBERT, author of The Sixth Extinction

ROWAN HOOPER is a senior editor at New Scientist and hosts the New Scientist Weekly podcast. He is also the author of Superhuman: Life at the Extremes of Mental and Physical Ability and has been published in The Guardian, The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, WIRED, and The Economist. He lives in London with his partner and two daughters.

A revelatory journey into the conversion of light into life, key to every living thing's survival—and our planet's future

We think we know photosynthesis: Plants convert sunlight, CO₂, and water into energy and, ultimately, the food we eat and air we breathe. But Raffael Jovine shows how this incredible process goes beyond what we learned in grade school. First, it's not only plants: Corals partner with photosynthetic organisms to create the most productive habitat on Earth; slugs eat chloroplasts for photosynthesis-based camouflage—and much more!

Further, photosynthesis can save the world. Jovine's groundbreaking blueprint for the future harnesses photosynthesis to repair ecosystems, create jobs, and grow sustainable food. This book will help you see the many surprising ways we can't live without this miracle of light—through the photosynthetic pigments in your own eyes!

“Read this book and you will learn how photosynthesis was discovered, how it works, and how we can produce more food to feed the world.”

—PAUL NURSE, Nobel Prize-winning author of What Is Life?

- ▶ Reveals surprising ways photosynthesis can save the planet, from sustainable food to clean energy
- ▶ For environmentalists and gardeners: Marvel at the overlooked wonders within all plants
- ▶ A unique addition to the climate change shelf, and a must-read for fans of Elizabeth Kolbert, Bill McKibben, and Naomi Klein

RAFFAEL JOVINE trained in molecular biophysics and biochemistry at Yale, did his PhD in marine sciences at UC Santa Barbara, and completed research at MIT. In 2013, he founded and is now chief scientist for a company that uses seawater, sunlight, and wind to grow food in coastal deserts, replicating algal blooms. He is married with five children and lives in London.

Modern

GENIUS, MADNESS, AND ONE TUMULTUOUS
DECADE THAT CHANGED ART FOREVER

Philip Hook

A strikingly original reappraisal of the revolutionary birth of Modern art in the tumultuous decade brought to a shattering close by WWI

The years leading up to WWI, 1905 to 1914, were the most frenzied and revolutionary in the history of art. They were the crucible of Modernism, when (to the horror of the conventional majority) Fauvism, Expressionism, Cubism, Futurism, and Abstract Art all burst forth in quick, shocking succession, and art itself was politically weaponized in advance of approaching war. Modern reexamines the period from a series of fresh angles: What was the conventional art against which Modernism was rebelling? Why did avant-garde artists become so obsessed with themselves? What persuaded a few bold collectors to buy difficult modern art? Why, at this same moment, did others pay so much for Old Masters? Cézanne, Matisse, Munch, Klimt, Picasso, as well as hundreds of lesser-known names star in this rare popular art history that helps us appreciate as never before this supremely consequential decade.

PHILIP HOOK was, until recently, a board member and senior director of Impressionist and Modern Art at Sotheby's in London. Over a quarter of a century, he handled the sale of many of this period's greatest masterpieces (and some of its less distinguished productions). He is the author of five successful novels set in the art world as well as Rogues' Gallery, a history of art dealers. He lives in London.

Humble

FREE YOURSELF FROM THE TRAPS
OF A NARCISSISTIC WORLD

The Quiet Power of an Ancient Virtue

Daryl Van Tongeren, PhD

A practical and philosophical deep dive into humility: how it can build confidence, foster honesty about our strengths and limitations, and help us achieve success

Narcissism is on the rise: It manifests in our friends, partners, coworkers, politicians—and even, from time to time, in ourselves. But a powerful tool can help us defeat it: humility.

Humble is the antidote that will help us look beyond our own desires. Psychologist Daryl Van Tongeren lays out a three-part path to achieving greater humility, which includes learning to accept feedback, letting go of defensive responses, and, ultimately, building stronger relationships. As Van Tongeren shows through his own experience, even the experts fall down sometimes—and anyone can rise to the challenge.

Rooted in groundbreaking research, this book explores how cultivating humility, an often-undervalued character trait, is the key to a life of meaning and purpose.

Social psychologist DARYL VAN TONGEREN, PhD, is an associate professor at Hope College in Holland, MI, and associate editor for The Journal of Positive Psychology. He has published over 190 articles and coauthored The Courage to Suffer, and he has been covered by The New York Times, The Washington Post, and NPR affiliate stations.

The secret to a healthy gut (and a healthier body and mind) is all in the microbes: the trillions of microorganisms that live in our digestive tract. These microbes thrive on fiber—as many different types as they can get.

That's why Dr. Megan Rossi developed the Diversity Diet, a simple yet revolutionary way of eating that anyone can adopt to enjoy huge health benefits—increased energy, improved mood, and reduced risk of illness, to name a few. It's all about eating a wider variety of plant foods—at least 30 different plants per week.

Each plant counts as one point, and How to Eat More Plants shows readers exactly how to get their “Plant Points” with delicious fruits, veggies, grains, nuts, herbs, and more. A 28-day challenge, tailored meal plans, and over 80 mouthwatering recipes set readers on the path toward better health!

MEGAN ROSSI, PhD, RD, the Gut Health Doctor, is an internationally influential gut-health specialist. A practicing dietitian and nutritionist and leading Research Fellow at King's College London, she is the founder of The Gut Health Clinic, where she leads a team of gut-specialist dietitians. She lives in London.

How We Do Family

FROM ADOPTION TO TRANS PREGNANCY,
WHAT WE LEARNED ABOUT LOVE
AND LGBTQ PARENTHOOD

Trystan Reese

Now in paperback—an LGBTQ activist's inspiring memoir of the many paths that lead to a loving family

Trystan Reese shares his unique story of emergency caretaking and trans pregnancy alongside universal lessons that will help all parents through the ups and downs of raising children. How We Do Family is a refreshing new take on family life for the LGBTQ community and beyond. Through every tough moment and touching memory, Trystan shows that more important than getting things right is doing them with love.

"[This] book is joyful, insightful, and so damn lovely that you're doing yourself a disservice by not owning it."

—Scary Mommy

"Reese writes with great tenderness and compassion, and also with a well-considered agenda of political and social activism."

—ANDREW SOLOMON, National Book Award-winning author of The Noonday Demon and Far from the Tree

- ▶ Now with a reader's guide
- ▶ A resource for the 77 percent of LGBTQ millennials who have or are considering children—but don't see their lives reflected in most parenting books
- ▶ With tips on classic parenting topics and current issues, from tough love to anti-racism
- ▶ Publishes in time for Pride Month

TRYSTAN REESE is an established thought leader, educator, speaker, and the founder of Collaborate Consulting. He is a 2021 Lambda Literary Fellow and has been featured in PBS Nova, People, and BuzzFeed. Trystan is married to his partner, Biff, and they live in Portland, OR, with their three kids: Lucas, Hailey, and Leo.

Do As I Say, Not Who I Did

HONEST ADVICE ON HOOKUPS
AND RELATIONSHIPS IN COLLEGE

Ali Drucker

Expert-backed sex and dating advice for newly independent college-age women, set against humorous, confessional stories

Entering college marks an exciting—and often confusing—transition into adult independence, especially when it comes to navigating a healthy sex life and building fulfilling relationships. Do As I Say, Not Who I Did is a straightforward, judgment-free guide for young women, with practical advice backed by experts in the field of sexuality.

Ali Drucker lays bare her own hookup missteps and insecurities about sex to coach readers through the sticky situations that new independence presents. Plus, she weaves in the stories of over forty young women from colleges across the country, with advice from sex therapists, ob-gyns, and more. From consent to STIs to balancing relationships and schoolwork, she fills in the gaps that grade school sex ed left wide open. Mixing candid memoir with current research, this is the guide to sex ed that teens and twentysomethings will actually want to read.

ALI DRUCKER has written for The New York Times, Teen Vogue, and Refinery29. She was the sex and relationships senior editor for Maxim and Cosmo, and she continues to write about sex in the media and mental health for outlets like HuffPost and New York Magazine. She lives in Los Angeles with her fiancé, comedy writer Jesse McLaren.

Now updated in a second edition—the category-leading guide to parenting in the kitchen

Pediatrician Nimali Fernando and feeding expert Melanie Potock (aka Dr. Yum and Coach Mel) know the importance of giving children the right start on their food journey—for good health, motor skills, and even cognitive and emotional development. In Raising a Healthy, Happy Eater, they explain how to expand your family's food horizons, avoid the picky-eater trap, identify special feeding needs, and put joy back into mealtimes. This thoroughly updated second edition now includes the latest research and AAP recommendations, plus new sections on pacifiers, thumb-sucking, allergens, and more.

Winner of the National Parenting Product Award

“With wisdom, wit, and candor, Dr. Nimali Fernando and Melanie Potock will take you on a fascinating journey into the mind and sensory system of your fickle eaters.”

—DANIEL FEITEN, MD, clinical professor of pediatrics,
University of Colorado School of Medicine

NIMALI FERNANDO, MD, MPH, is the founder of the nonprofit Dr. Yum Project and an AAP fellow.

MELANIE POTOCK, MA, CCC-SLP, is the author of two other books. Their preschool nutrition curriculum has been adopted by Head Start Classrooms nationwide.

A shot can be a little frightening—but it's quick, as quick as lightning!

When Maxine tells her pets, "Let's get to the vet!," her toy ocelot does not want a shot. Her pooch won't scooch, and her budgie won't budge. But Maxine is not shy, so she tells them all why—and her pets know it's smart, coming straight from the heart.

Off they all scurry (with more or less worry), from the kitten named Mitten to the filly called Milly. It's the smallest of pinches (the finch barely flinches). And after the vaccine? They have snacks à la Maxine!

- ▶ Imaginative play is the cure for little ones' fear of shots in this delightful rhyming story
- ▶ Timed to the hopeful approval of a COVID-19 vaccine for the youngest children
- ▶ Also applies to standard pediatric vaccines
- ▶ Vivid illustrations make this unlikely subject fun!

Why Do I Feel So Worried?

A KID'S GUIDE TO COPING WITH BIG EMOTIONS

Follow the Arrows from Anxiety to Calm

Tammi Kirkness

An illustrated flowchart guides kids to the right calming activity for every kind of anxiety

Children aren't exempt from the effects of today's stressful world. They need resources for anxiety—and Why Do I Feel So Worried? is here to help. Kids can follow its simple decision-tree format to:

- Name the emotion they're struggling with (like stress)
- Figure out its source (for instance, homework problems)
- Calm down with an easy activity (such as a soothing script)

Kids may not always be able to solve what's worrying them—but with Why Do I Feel So Worried?, they can respond positively and build coping skills for lifelong mental health.

TAMMI KIRKNESS is a life coach, corporate wellness speaker, and former clinician at a center for kids with learning difficulties. She's also the author of The Panic Button Book (for adults), which has been published in more than eight countries since its release in October 2020. She lives in Sydney, Australia.

Wimmelbooks get ready to fly with this look-and-find airplane adventure!

Nearly wordless, My Big Wimmelbooks® invite young children to explore vibrant, full-spread illustrations of everyday scenes. Little ones love pointing out what they can find (a suitcase, a plane), while older kids can seek out recurring star characters (introduced on page one) and imagine their unfolding story lines!

At the Airport brings kids through each part of an airplane trip, from check-in and security to boarding and, of course, getting airborne—with plenty of interesting happenings along the ride. Promising hours of imaginative fun for kids who delight in make-believe, wimmelbooks are a blast—and an excellent introduction to literacy.

Planet of the Ants

THE HIDDEN WORLDS
AND EXTRAORDINARY LIVES OF EARTH'S TINY CONQUERORS

Susanne Foitzik and Olaf Fritzsche

Now in paperback—this portrait of the world's uncontested six-legged conquerors will open your eyes to the secret societies beneath your feet

Look inside an anthill, and you'll find drama worthy of a royal court: Just like us, ants grow crops, raise livestock, tend their young and infirm, and make vaccines. And, just like us, ants have a dark side: They wage war, despoil environments, and enslave rivals—but also rebel against their oppressors. Acclaimed biologist Susanne Foitzik, joined by journalist Olaf Fritzsche, invites readers deep into her world—in the field and in the lab.

"Beautifully illustrated . . . the authors' scientific rigor is matched by their joy in their subjects."

—The Wall Street Journal

"Will give you a newfound appreciation for the pint-sized civilizations thriving right in your backyard."

HOW TO ORDER

Our books are distributed by Workman Publishing Company in the United States (and qualify for their discount schedules, and combine for minimums) and by other distributors worldwide.

This catalog includes our complete frontlist and highlights from our backlist. Our website (theexperimentpublishing.com) includes our complete backlist.

When ordering, please use the 6-digit product number or ISBN of each title. For prepacks, give the quantity and ISBN of the prepack, not the individual title.
