

Create Your Own Love Bubble

In the book Love Bubble by Harold Green III and illustrated by Princess Karibo, a boy named Harry is taught how to make a “love bubble” by his grandma Big Girl. This story was inspired by Harold Green III’s childhood in the southside of Chicago, where he always felt protected by a “love bubble” in his house—a magical feeling of being surrounded by the love of family, friends, and community.

Now every kid can join in on the fun with this activity inspired by the book!

Directions

1. Print out the blank sheet on the next page.
2. Draw a big bubble.
3. Inside the bubble, draw all the people whom you love. You can include friends, family members, neighbors—anyone who makes you feel loved and happy.
4. Hang your drawing up or—better yet—give it to someone in the picture!
